RE: Legal Opinion Regarding Electronic Voting

Date: June 7, 2017

I agree with the analysis below. In fact, it is logical that this would facilitate participation by the property owners. Please proceed, and I am adopting this as a City Attorney Opinion.

Craig E. Leen
City Attorney

Florida Statutes s. 170.01 provides that “[a]ny municipality, subject to the approval of a majority of the affected property owners, may levy and collect special assessments against property benefited for the purpose of stabilizing and improving: (a) Retail business districts, (b) Wholesale business districts, or (c) Nationally recognized historic districts, or any combination of such districts through promotion, management, marketing, and other similar services in such districts of the municipality” (emphasis added). It does not provide a specific voting method for ascertaining whether the majority of the affected property owners within the Coral Gables BID favor re-establishment of the BID, so in the past, the City Clerk, as Supervisor of Elections, has opted for the petitioning process. Given that the statute does not address the voting method, I do not see any issue with using the electronic voting method to determine if the affected property owners favor re-establishment of the BID.

In particular, please research the BID statute to see if there are any provisions limiting use of an electronic method.

Stephanie,

Please research the issue below this afternoon. I am open to using the City's electronic voting method as long as it is certified by the City Clerk. I believe we could defend it. I just want you to check state law to determine if there are any issues.

Dear Craig,

Hope all is well.

I met with Walter Foreman yesterday who informed me that we may be able to use the City's new electronic voting method for our upcoming BID re-election. As a quick reminder, we utilized a petition method during our last election which proved to be easier and less cumbersome for our stakeholders. The electronic system, which I was able to test for myself yesterday, appears to be even simpler.

Of course there are some concerns about the possibility of anyone contesting the method since I understand it has yet to be utilized. Walter suggested I ask you for a legal opinion on the method and if we, as a BID (governmental entity) are able to use this voting method for the our election.

I look forward to your response. Please do not hesitate to give me a call or reach out if you have questions.

Thanks,

Taci
